

BEAUTY

The Supremes on The Ed Sullivan Show, 1968

Wearing sequins in 1969

Mary Wilson, Diana Ross, and Cindy Birdsong in 1968

Diana Ross, Florence Ballard, and Mary Wilson in 1967

MOOD BOARD THE SUPREMES

The greatest girl group of all time is the Supremes, and you can come at me with your Spice Girls, your Wilson Phillips, TLC, and even Destiny's Child, but I will stand by that fact. It's not just their music that deserves accolades—it's their style. As Mary Wilson points out in her new book, Supreme Glamour (Thames & Hudson), she, Diana Ross, Florence Ballard, and the other women who cycled through the group had an outsize influence on the fashion and beauty worlds from the 1950s through the 1970s, and they left a trail of glitter dust so long, it's even sparkling in today's beauty products. Sadly, the Supremes's branded wig collection has been discontinued, but you can still turn up the volume with some Batiste dry shampoo and a Paul Mitchell teasing brush. Accent your eyes with Glossier Play's Glitter Gelée, dust your cheeks with Too Faced's "Baby Love" blush, and gloss up your limbs with Fenty Beauty's shimmer lotion. The finishing touch to any supremely glamorous look? Uoma's Badass Icon lipstick, emblazoned with the phrase "A badass does not talk about being a badass." The name for the matte red shade? Diana, obviously.

Beauty & Health Director
JENNIFER GOLDSTEIN

1. SUPREME GLAMOUR by Mary Wilson, with Mark Bego (Thames & Hudson), $40.
2. MIELLE ORGANICS Pomegranate & Honey Moisturizing and Detangling Shampoo, $13.
3. BATISTE Dry Shampoo in Naughty, $9.
4. TOO FACED Love Flush Blush in Baby Love, $29.
5. UOMA BEAUTY Badass Icon Matte Lipstick in Diana, $24.
6. COVERGIRL Exhibitionist Mascara, $11.
7. KISS Magnetic Lashes, $12.
8. FENTY BEAUTY Body Lava Body Luminizer in Who Needs Clothes?!, $59.
9. EUROPEAN WAX CENTER Reveal Me Face Exfoliating Gel Mask, $22.
10. PAT MCGRATH Skin Fetish Sublime Primer, $60.
11. MENTED COSMETICS Skin by Mented Foundation in D10, $30.
12. MUGLER Angel Eau Croisière Eau de Toilette, $84.
13. PAUL MITCHELL Teasing Brush, $7.
14. BUMBLE AND BUMBLE Bb. Shimmer Strobing Jelly in Prismatic Gold, $17.
15. GLOSSIER PLAY Glitter Gelée in Glass Bonsai, $14.
16. URBAN DECAY Hi-Fi Shine Ultra Cushion Lip Gloss in Hot Love, $20.